Poetry by Rumi

The Guest House

This being human is a guest house. Every morning a new guest arrives. A joy, a depression, a meanness, some momentary awareness comes as an unexpected visitor.

Welcome and entertain them all! Even if they are a crowd of sorrows, who violently sweep your house empty of its furniture, still, treat each guest honorably. He may be clearing you out for some new delight.

The dark thought, the shame, the malice, meet them at the door laughing, and invite them in.

Be grateful for whoever comes, because each has been sent as a guide from beyond.

The Reed Flute

Listen to the story told by the reed flute, how it laments of its separation:

"From the moment I was cut from the reed bed, I have been consumed by longing.

For the One who severed me from my source, I am constantly moaning.

Everyone who hears the sound of my complaining, either weeps or dances.

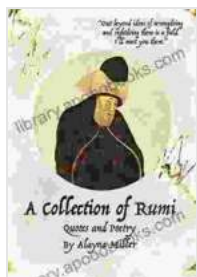

But none understands the secret of my song.

Those who see me dancing think I am happy, but my heart is broken.

I want to be joined with the One who blows into me.

I want to become a reed flute in the hands of the Divine.

This collection of Rumi quotes and poetry is just a small taste of the beauty and wisdom of his work. I encourage you to explore his work further and discover the transformative power of his words for yourself.
