WHAT DOES BELONGING LOOK LIKE?
GLOBAL CALLY CONTEST

*"Isolation is the feeling of sitting alone at the bottom of a well.
Connectedness is the feeling of belonging." Kim Samuel*

When you hear the word belonging, what images come to mind? What emotions, feelings and life experiences have informed your personal sense of belonging? How are young people today fostering a culture of belonging and inclusion within your community?

A sense of belonging is a human need. Like the need for food, water, shelter and what we are shaped by the people who we are connected to. Our communities thrive when everyone is connected, welcomed, accepted for who they are and supported by those around us.

We are interested in reflecting on the theme of belonging in order to grow a global movement of fostering social connectedness.

In the past, geographic boundaries often defined our identities and communities. In a digital age, people are either feeling hyper-connected or excluded from opportunities for meaningful connection.

We invite your imagination, voice and perspective on depicting social representations on the theme of belonging as this we tackle the issue of isolation together.

Our goal is to create an online collection and exhibit of stories at international events and events to help inform lawmakers in policy making and action. With that in mind, please include a description with the image or video that you submit to provide additional context to the meaning of what you create.
