The Value of Effective Leadership

As anyone would tell you, leadership is important for the success of a company. But do you know just how much of an effect leadership has not only on the business but also on the team?

WHY BEING A GOOD LEADER IS IMPORTANT

Only 13% of leaders have the ability to drive results and practice good people skills, according to one study, even though this combination can have a powerful effect on their effectiveness.

A leader's abilities have a huge impact on employee engagement. The more effective leaders are, the more effective their employees are.

GOOD VS. BAD LEADERSHIP

Good Leadership

A good leader creates good leaders. Employees who work for a manager with good leadership skills are more likely to become good leaders themselves.

A leader's effectiveness has an impact not only on employees but also on the business as a whole — including sales, revenue, and customer satisfaction.

According to one study conducted on Sears employees in 1998, a 5% increase in satisfaction led to a 1.3% improvement in customer satisfaction, and a $250 million increase in sales revenue.
